

Join Heidelberg Alumnus Jason Hurwitz for the World Premier of his first movie, THE DOG WEDDING.

Monday, September 21, 2015, 7pm,
AMC Loews Boston Common
175 Tremont St, Boston, MA 02111

The lighthearted film tells the story of a German businesswoman, sent to Arizona to close a pickle factory. She falls for an American wrestler she meets at a dog park, testing her lifelong obedience to her CEO/father. Making her U.S. film debut, German star Rosalie Thomass plays opposite World Wrestling Entertainment's Matthew Bloom, Bernhard Schütz and a delightfully eccentric cast in this goofy romantic comedy.

Jason B. Hurwitz studied at Universitat Heidelberg in Fall 1992 as part of the American Junior Year program, immersed in Goethe, Schiller and his Deutsche Bahn pass. "My time in Heidelberg was the most fun and enriching of my life. To work with German actors and craft a storyline of father-daughter conflict with roots in the German reunification brought every phase of my life to bear. The Wiedervereinigung was the first international news event that captured my attention as a teenager in Boston. Layering my German studies, travels, and (as screenwriter) personal story into the German characters was a wildly fulfilling adventure." Prior to following his creative ambitions, Jason enjoyed a successful 15-year career as a private equity investor.
